Malone were looted and a handsome hunting case watch, a garnet ring, and $25 in cash were taken away from him.

POLICEMAN'S TRIAL ENDS; BOARD WITHHOLDS RESULT

The hearing of the charges against Private G. V. Johnson, of the Seventh precinct, alleging that the policeman while on post duty at Aqueduct bridge engaged in the writing of articles for a local newspaper and also violated the rules of the department by smoking while on duty, was concluded today by the police trial board. The findings of the board will not be made public for about a month, during which time the testimony will be considered and a decision submitted by the board in writing to the Superintendent of Police and to the District Commissioners.

SPECIAL HEALTH BOARD BEGINS INVESTIGATION

To make the investigation into the cause and origin of typhoid fever in the District as much good is expected to result from the investigation, and it is believed that the true cause of the typhoid germ and a sure preventive may be discovered. The letter is signed by Dr. M. J. Rosenau, Director Hygienic Laboratory; Dr. L. L. Lumsden, Passed Assistant Surgeon, and Dr. Joseph H. Kastle, chief of division of chemistry.

Ice For the Young Babies: None For Soda Fountains, Is Health Officer's Dictum

Cut off the delivery of ice to soda-water and ice-cream dealers, and serve this supply to milk dealers having among their customers families with young babies. Sacrifice the public demand for these two luxuries, but give the mother a chance to keep her baby's milk sweet at all hazards.

This significant suggestion is urged by Health Officer W. C. Woodward as the most feasible means of handling the problem of how the public's needs can be best handled in the event of an ice famine growing out of the threatened combine of the local ice interests to control the supply and price of this vitally necessary commodity. If an ice famine should become in this city a stern reality instead of simply a hateful specter, its worst effects, if decided preference was not shown the milk dealer by the ice company, Dr. Woodward declares, would fall in the infantile portion of the community, because, he explains, it is so obviously important that their milk be kept cool and sweet by the constant use of ice.

Sentiment Prompts It.

While acknowledging that he urges this plan of ice distribution upon sentimental grounds alone, and admitting that he has every reason to believe it would be rejected by the ice companies for purely commercial reasons, Dr. Woodward is nevertheless sincere in his advocacy of the proposition, in the event of the situation in the next few days.

STUART'S HEAD GIVEN AS REASON FOR RESIGNATION

A. T. Stuart's Statement

"I resigned the position of superintendent of schools because of my physical condition. Some men are built for continued strain, and some are not. I am not. I'm all in."

A. T. STUART,
Former Superintendent of the Schools for the District of Columbia.

"East 156" was the busiest telephone in Washington today, for it was over this wire that the many friends of former Superintendent of Schools A. T. Stuart called him up and talked to him, expressing their regret at his resignation as head of the local schools and begging him to reconsider his determination to give up the position.

Among those who either telephoned Mr. Stuart or talked to him personally were some of the most prominent business men of the city, supervising principals, women prominent in educational and charitable work, and teachers of all grades from the high schools to the kindergarten classes.

To The Times Mr. Stuart said:

Resignation Due to Poor Health.
"I had to resign because of my physical condition. I am terribly run down, and felt I could not stand the strain of the work I have been doing, let alone the added work and responsibility that attach to the position under the law reorganizing the schools of the District. It was simply a matter of self-preservation with me."

"Some men are built for strain and some are not. I am not. I'm all in, and there is no doubt that I took the proper step in resigning my position. It was suggested, 'That you had the necessary votes for your reappointment if you had desired the position again?'"

"I have been told so," he replied, modestly.
Mr. Stuart was at the Franklin Building for a short time today straightening up his desk and attending to some correspondence. This was his last business, preparatory to relinquishing the office which he, as superintendent of schools, has occupied for the past six years with such flattering results, as evidenced by the present condition of the schools.

Until the Board of Education decides on a man for the position made vacant by Mr. Stuart's resignation, all the work of the office will fall upon the shoulders of W. W. Connor, who was yesterday selected by the board to succeed himself as its secretary. These duties will be onerous, for not only will Mr. Connor have to attend to much of the business affairs and administrative details of the school system during the summer months, but he will also be required to assist the new board under the situation Mr. Connor's new term dates from July 1, 1906.

For the present all speculation and conjecture concerning who will be Mr. Stuart's successor, Mr. Stuart himself expressed the hope today that the board would select a man of the type of local men to the position. It is the general impression, however, that an outsider will eventually be called to the work.

Many names in this connection have been mentioned, among them Dean Baldwin of the University of Wisconsin, of the department of education in the University of Cincinnati; Assistant Superintendent F. C. Hoyt, of Indianapolis; and Mr. Van Sickle, of Baltimore.

The board is of the opinion that it must have a man who has the science of pedagogy with the energy to take hold of the local school system and put it on its feet in compliance with the provisions of the new school law. The matter will be thoroughly considered by the board's committee, Messrs. Lumsden, Cox, and Cook, appointed to investigate the field and recommend to the board a new superintendent.

Among the local candidates for the position have been mentioned Director Hughes and Supervising Principal Richard H. Clarke.

President Baird, of the Board of Education, today appointed a committee on playgrounds, consisting of Mrs. Justine I. Hill and Dr. Atwood.

READING RAILROAD'S HEAD OFF FOR EUROPEAN TRIP

NEW YORK, July 7.—George F. Baer, president of the Reading Railroad, sailed today for Europe on the steamer Kronland.

supporting the belief that there will be a stress in the market. In whatever way an ice famine is met, the Health Officer declares his belief that if milk dealers are prevented from getting an ample supply of ice, the result will be a ruthless sacrifice of hundreds of helpless infants.

"There are phases of this ice situation," said Dr. Woodward, "of a deeper significance than mere commercial considerations. One of them is the great suffering among babies following an ice famine. Another that is one is imminent, and I have reason to know of the present scarcity of ice, I am decidedly in favor of giving the milk dealers the bulk of the supply, even if it should act to the disadvantage of the soda water and ice cream dealers. In this, I think, the public will give its full sympathy."

High Death Rate Among Children.

In support of this proposition, Dr. Woodward points to the abnormally high death rate among infants of both races, but particularly of the colored, during the recent heat wave in this city. The mortality report of the Health Department for the week ended June 30, when the temperature reached its highest mark, shows the total number of deaths to have been 174, as compared with 132 during the same week of last year. Of these, forty-five deaths were of children not over three years, and twenty-seven under two years. These deaths were due to diseases common to children, such as diarrheal diseases, dysentery, and cholera.

Dr. Woodward states, are traceable to improperly prepared milk diet. Milk, he says, if not properly cooled and kept sweet will originate stomach complaints fatal to babies.

The Health Officer urges, therefore, that no more telling argument than this report of infant deaths is needed to convince the public that the infantile population should be safeguarded by any reasonable measure, if the city is confronted by an ice famine.

Secretary George J. Wilson, of the District Board of Charities, is now striving to keep the city's deserving poor from suffering in the present quandary. One of those who hold the ice companies morally responsible for the shortage in the ice supply. They have controlled the local market long enough, he argues, to have known exactly, almost to the hundred pounds, what the needs of the community would be in the event of such a situation as the present arising. They have met the market demands in former years, he points out, and should now be held accountable for failure to meet it this year. He rejects the statement made by one of the companies that its contract with a Maine agent called for the delivery, in this city, of 10,000 tons a month, for June, July, and August, and that the poor family he is to arrive as scheduled had left the company without means of supplying its customers. The recent developments of the ice situation, he thinks, do not verify the facts of this statement.

Ice for the Poor.

Secretary Wilson announces that he as agent of the Board of Charities will accept the offer of Christian Heurich, the local brewer, to donate tons of manufactured ice weekly to the needy among poor families in all parts of the city whenever cases of distress are reported.

Present for Every Baby Plan of Generous Firm But They Expect Health Office to Keep 'Em Posted on Stork's Visits and Maybe That Isn't Lawful.

A commercial invasion of the District Health Department is in prospect through the District Commissioners' action in granting the request of an enterprising local furniture firm to have one of Health Officer Woodward's assistants keep it informed of the record of births occurring in the District. The firm's object is to promote the sale of its goods by sending a circular letter to the parents of all the little visitors, informing them of the advantage of purchasing at their store a baby carriage, go-cart, or other article necessary to babyhood. As an inducement to the sale of its wares, the firm informs the Commissioners that each baby is to receive free of charge a souvenir spoon, appropriately engraved, and that the parents of the little newcomer will be able to take advantage of a credit plan superior to all others.

Before giving their consent to the scheme, the Commissioners referred the matter to Health Officer Woodward. Dr. Woodward gave his approval, but pointed out that if the work fell to the lot of one of his clerks it should be performed during office hours and at a compensation satisfactory to the clerk. Inasmuch as it is understood that no employee of the Government, Federal or otherwise, can receive salary outside of the Government, the question may yet have to be settled by the Corporation Council.

Deny Chauffeur's Story That Mrs. Thaw Rode In White's Carriage

Complete discredit was placed today upon a story printed here in which John Burns, night chauffeur for Stanford White, said that Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, after her marriage, had dined with White and ridden with him in his automobile.

Unqualified denials of the statements attributed to Burns came not only from former Judge Olcott, of counsel for Thaw, but from Assistant District Attorney Garvin, who has charge of the prosecution, as well.

"Burns' story cannot be true," said Mr. Garvin. "We had Burns before us immediately after the murder of White. He made a statement to me, but it was nothing like the one that was printed. He made no mention of ever having taken White and Mrs. Thaw out in White's auto. Burns was under oath at the time."

Defense May Change Plans.
Intimations are heard today that the defense may have to change its present plans in the fight for the life of Harry Thaw, charged with the murder of Stanford White, and instead of trying to prove emotional insanity will ask for the appointment of a commission to ascertain if Thaw is sane.

This sudden contemplated change, it is said, has been brought about by the complete failure of counsel for Thaw to unearth any real evidence that White had signed a renewal of his relations with Mrs. Thaw after her marriage. In fact, no later than yesterday former Judge Olcott admitted that no evidence of that character had been found. Unless such evidence can be found it robs the defense of any chance to plead justification of emotional insanity brought on by the fact that Thaw was seeking to renew his former relations with Mrs. Thaw. The defense realizes that it could not make a strong plea for justification because of any relationship that may have existed between Stanford White and Evelyn Nesbit before the Thaw marriage.

The question of the existence of the relationship said to have been made by Evelyn Nesbit at the instance of Stanford White is causing the defense no end of worry. Judge Olcott denied that such an affidavit was made or that it had been signed. The denial of the defense is thought by some to have been made for the purpose of bringing out just how much information the prosecution has on this important document. It is admitted that the original affidavit has been destroyed, but Assistant District Attorney Garvin says significantly:

"I will neither deny nor affirm that such an affidavit or a copy of it is in existence now. But I would go very slow in making an emphatic denial that such an affidavit can be produced at the proper time. That is all that I will say about the matter."

L. S. JOHNSON WEDS MISS ELLIE LEE

A Surprise to Colleagues at the District Building.

The many friends at the District Building of Livingston S. Johnson, one of Mr. William Tindall's staff in the executive offices, were surprised today to learn of their colleague's marriage, in Baltimore, last Saturday, to Miss Nellie Lee, daughter of Dr. Lee, of 727 Third street northeast. The secret leaked out through the receipt of a letter from Mr. Johnson to one of his associates, announcing his marriage and giving out the news that he was in Atlantic City on his honeymoon. Later Louis C. Wilson, Commissioner West's secretary, confirmed the news and confessed his participation as best man.

Before leaving the city Mr. Johnson applied for his annual leave, but did not take his office associates into his confidence as to his intentions. He met his prospective bride at the Pennsylvania Station, and together with his brother, Henry Johnson, and Secretary Wilson, hurried to Baltimore, where arrangements were made for two marriage ceremonies, one by which Miss Lee became Mrs. Livingston Johnson, and Miss Roy, one of the acknowledged Monticello City belles, became Mrs. Roy. The dual ceremony was followed by a wedding luncheon at the Hotel Renart, and a wedding trip to the seashore. Both couples will make this city their future home.

ONE AMERICAN DEAD OF CHOLERA IN MANILA

Situation Becoming Better Daily, Decreased to Eighteen Native Deaths in Past Twenty-four Hours.

Governor General Ide, of the Philippines, today cabled the bureau of insular affairs of the War Department as follows with regard to the cholera situation in Manila:

"W. H. Hart died of cholera, July 4; notify Lizzie Peppard, Caldwell, Canaan county, Idaho. There is a decided improvement in the cholera situation. For the twenty-four hours ending 8 a. m., July 7, eighteen cases. Daily average dropped about one-half. No further increase in provinces. Practically all cases mentioned were found dead."

It is stated by the bureau of insular affairs officials that this is the only report of death by cholera of an American which has been received since the reports of the recent outbreak of the epidemic. The bureau has asked Governor Ide for daily reports.

EXCURSION TRIPS DURING SUMMER

That Chevy Chase Lake is still a great favorite with those who visit suburban resorts is amply evidenced by the throngs there every evening of the week. Hundreds of these take but little part in the pursuit of recreation, but seem to find greatest pleasure in viewing the fairy-like illumination, listening to the splendid music, and enjoying the cool country air. Sunday evenings are especially enjoyable to this class of patrons, as the Marine Band orchestra renders an extra program then, for there is no dancing. Many other amusements are provided, dancing seemingly leading in popularity, for the spacious pavilion is always thronged from the conclusion of the concert on week day evenings to closing hour, 11 o'clock. In addition, there are shooting galleries, bowling alleys, boats for rowing, a moving picture theater, etc. The car service is all that can be desired.

Both the day and evening trips of the Norfolk and Washington Steamboat Company's new steamer Jamestown have been enjoyed by hundreds, and there is every indication that they will continue to grow in popularity. Aside from her speed and elegance of appointments the Jamestown is noteworthy in many respects. Her steamer can neither sink nor burn, being constructed with watertight bulk heads of strictly fireproof material. The element of safety is one every excursionist likes to be sure of. On the "moonlight sail" the Jamestown leaves the wharf daily and on Sunday, p. m., returning to town at 11, after a sail of forty miles. The all-day trips given every Sunday to the waters of the extreme lower Potomac are made at 2 a. m., returning to town at 6 p. m. Children are carried for half fare on both trips.

The week-end trips given by the Norfolk and Washington Steamboat Company are the means of affording many residents over-Sunday stays at the seashore. Reduced rate round-trip tickets are on sale every Saturday, good leaving the same evening at 6:30, and returning early Monday morning. This schedule gives Sunday at Old Point Comfort, Norfolk, Virginia Beach, or Pico Beach, whichever the passenger prefers. State-rooms for these trips may be engaged in advance. Norfolk and Washington boats sail daily at 6:30 for Norfolk, connecting there with steamers for New York and Boston by sea. Offices are located at Seventh street wharf and at 26 Fourteenth street.

July evenings on the river and July Sundays at Marshall Hall are two features that make Washington life in mid-summer attractive. Tomorrow the steamer Charles Macalester will make three trips to Marshall Hall. There will be a special musical program rendered through the afternoon and evening by Schroeder's Band. Table d'hôte dinner and music in a large room are served in the dining hall on the arrival of the boat, the dairy lunch will serve those who do not care for a dinner. The steamer Charles Macalester will leave for Marshall Hall tomorrow at 11 a. m., 2:30 and 6:30 p. m., returning from the Hall at 1, 4, and 9 o'clock p. m.

A delightful way to cool off this evening is to take a trip to Marshall Hall and Indian Head. Prof. Schroeder has arranged an exciting dancing card for those who care to stop off at the Hall until the return of the steamer from Indian Head. Indian Head trips are run every Friday and Saturday evening during the season.

The Sunday outings at River View each week are deservedly popular and each Sunday large throngs visit the resort. The steamer Queen Anne will leave for River View tomorrow at 11 a. m. and 6:30 p. m. The first two trips will be to River View. But on the last trip the steamer will stop at Indian Head, and will continue down the river, making a run of forty miles. On the return trip the ship will stop at the View to take aboard the patrons there and will reach about 10 p. m. Music will be a feature of the trip both on the steamer and on the grounds.

The big steamer St. Johns will make her regular week-end trips to Colonial Beach this week, leaving here this afternoon at 5:45 o'clock and again tomorrow morning at 8:45 o'clock.

At the beach most of the accommodations are not comfortable on the beds. The bathing and swimming are excellent, and the bathing cannot be excelled on the Potomac.

These outings can be taken without losing any time from business, for the steamer leaves Saturday afternoon after business hours, and is home again Sunday night about 11 o'clock. These week-end trips will be run throughout the season in conjunction with the daily steamboat trips of the St. Johns to Colonial Beach.
